DR. SCHENCK'S
Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills.

These medicines have undoubtedly performed more cures of Consumption than any other remedy known to the American public. They are compounded of vegetable ingredients, and contain nothing which can be injurious to the human constitution.

Other remedies advertised as cures for Consumption, probably contain opium, which is a somewhat dangerous drug in all cases, and if taken freely by consumptive patients, it must do great injury; for its tendency is to confine the morbid matter in the system, which of course, must make a cure impossible.

Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup is warranted not to contain a particle of opium: It is composed of powerful but harmless herbs, which act on the lungs, liver, stomach and blood, and thus correct all morbid secretions, and expel all the diseased matter from the body. These are the only means by which Consumption can be cured, and as Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup, Sea Weed Tonic, and Mandrake Pills are the only medicines which operate in this way, it is obvious they are the only genuine cure for Pulmonary Consumption. Each bottle of this invaluable medicine is accompanied by full directions.

Dr. Schenck is professionally at his principal office, corner Sixth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, every Monday, and at the Quincy House, Boston, on the following Wednesdays, June 10th and 24th, July 8th and 22d, and August 5th and 19th. je5-eod

Newport Daily News.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1874.

AN OLD EPITAPH.—The following epitaph, copied from a gravestone in Pembroke, Mass., is almost a century old, and is now for the first time in print:—

Here rests a poor woman
Who always was tired,
For she lived in a house
Where help was not hired.
Her last words were, Friends,
Fare ye well, I am going
To a place where there's nothing
Of washing and sewing.
Then weep not, my friends,
When death shall us sever;
For I'll have a nice time
In doing nothing forever,
For everything there
Is exact to my wishes,
Since where they don't eat
There's no washing of dishes.
The courts with sweet music
Are constantly ringing;
But having no voice,
I shall get clear of singing.
She folded her hands
With her latest endeavor,
And whispered sweet nothing,
Oh, nothing forever.
—[Harper's Magazine.

WEAKNESS OF BLACKGUARDISM.—If it be too visionary to suppose that newspaper comments are of any use, or are meant to produce any impression except that of impudent smartness upon the part of the writer, then Billingsgate epithets may as well be considered forcible as the finest passages in literature, and Mr. Pott is very much superior to Milton or Addison. It is nevertheless, a foolish illusion to suppose that moderation of phrase and courtesy of tone are signs of weakness or tameness. Junius is not most effective when most vituperative, and Junius is sweetly passing into oblivion. The French at Fontenoy who politely invited the enemy to fire first were not cowards, nor did they spare their own volleys. Even Sir Lucius O'Trigger does not come upon the ground and denounce his adversary as a malignant pismire; but his aim is not less sure because he lifts his hat before he raises his weapon. Many a young writer for the press is weak —that is, full of superlatives and fury —because he is afraid to be strong—that is, moderate and reasonable—and one good way for him to correct his style, and thereby to command attention and influence, is to reflect as he writes that his readers are quite as thoughtful and intelligent as he is, and that the public which most newspaper writers seem to have in mind does not really exist as a newspaper-reading public. Those persons, for instance, who think that their opponents in politics are all knaves or fools are not readers of newspapers; while those who are readers do not need to be told, to prevent them from transferring their allegiance, that every thing which the other party does is base and correct, and that all its leaders are scoundrels. And the same intelligence which enables a reader to retain his convictions, although he knows that many honest and able men differ from him, also enables him to perceive that fury is not force, nor sheer blackguardism vigor.—[Editor's Easy Chair, in Harper's Magazine for October.

SLANG PHRASES AMONG YOUTH.—The young misses and ladies whose grammatical inaccuracies and slang phrases, such as "My gracious!" "Oh, goodness" are allowed to escape unnoticed at home, must submit to be severely criticized in good society, or else be doomed to constant anxiety in their efforts to play propriety.

The young gentleman who lolls in the easy chair, and invariably takes the cosiest corner by the fireside; neglects to take off his squeaking boots when visiting the sick-room of some suffering relative, or to accompany his sisters once in three months to the concert or lecture which they are longing to hear, will never be a perfect gentleman unless some millennial wave rolls over him. As for the poor relations who inhabit the attic chambers, mend the home linen, and serve as a kind of "pin-cushion" into which all the family annoyances are thrust—what plea shall we offer for them? or what precept enforce except to enforce that "patience have its perfect work?"—[From "Home Politeness," in Phrenological Journal for October.

VALUABLE COLORING WASH FOR FENCES.—The following is a most excellent, cheap and durable wash for fences and buildings. It owes its durability chiefly to the white vitriol which hardens and fixes the wash: Take a barrel and slake one bushel of freshly burned lime in it, by covering the lime with boiling water. After it is slaked, add cold water enough to bring it to the consistency of good white wash. Then dissolve in water, and add one pound of white vitriol (sulphate of zinc,) and one quart of fine salt. To give this wash a cream color, add one half a pound of yellow ochre, (in powder). To give it a fawn color, add a pound of yellow ochre, and one fourth of a pound of Indian red. To make the wash a handsome gray stone color, add one half a pound of French blue, and one fourth pound of Indian red; a drab will be made by adding one half pound of burned sienna, and one fourth Venetian red. For brick or stone, instead of one bushel of lime, use half a bushel of hydraulic cement.—[Practical Farmer.

THE HARTFORD ACCIDENT Insurance Company.
Cash Capital, $200,000.
R. D. HUBBARD, Pres. GEO. B. LESTER, Sec.

Insures against all forms of bodily injury induced by accidental means: such as dislocations, fractures, broken bones, ruptured tendons, bruises, cuts, stabs, gunshot wounds, crushing or mangling, burns and scalds, bites of mad dogs or serpents, unprovoked assaults by robbers or murderers, stroke of lightning or drowning &c.

The records of the years are filled with such accidents, and no doubt will be, so long as human carelessness exists. We are beset with them, from the cradle to the grave, and there is scarcely an individual who cannot refer, within the sphere of his own family or acquaintance, to some accident in which the indemnity offered by this company would have been a blessing worth much more than its cost.

Policies issued for long or short terms providing for weekly payments, in case of disability, and for the payment of the whole sum, in case of death.

The only company in the country that devotes itself wholly to accident insurance. A yearly policy covers accidents while travelling, while about one's business, while in the street, at home or abroad. The premium on each $1,000 is so small that every man is able to secure a policy without the slightest embarrassment. For full and complete particulars inquire of L. D. DAVIS, agent for Newport and vicinity.

THE DAY.

Mr. Beecher has returned from his vacation and was enthusiastically received by his society last evening.

Four tons of powder in a canal boat in England exploded yesterday morning. Much property was destroyed and several lives were lost.

Johann Strauss has written an editorial waltz. He is trying to curry favor with the press, but who ever saw an editorial waltz? He will find that journalists can't be tickled with Strauss.

The dry-goods commission houses of Boston closed their respective places of business today, from eleven to twelve, as a mark of respect to the late Mr. Gardner Brewer, whose funeral took place at King's chapel at eleven o'clock.

The extensive oil factories at Hunter's Point, L. I., were burned yesterday. Three box factories and a block of tenement houses were burned at Greenpoint, L. I., the loss amounting to $185,000. There was a $20,000 fire at Circleville, O., a $30,000 fire at Glen Falls, N. Y., a $6,000 fire at Worcester, Mass., a $15,000 fire in St. Louis, a $15,000 fire in Youngstown, O., a fire of like extent in Evansville, Ind., a $150,000 fire in Hamilton, Ont., and a fire in Ogdensburg, N. Y. The losses from these fires of one day aggregate about three quarters of a millon of dollars.

Sam Simmons, the brother of the young Christian soldier who sits at the receipt of customs in Boston, desires now to turn state's evidence against Ben Butler. He says Butler has been guilty of many corrupt practices all of which he (Simmons) saw and part of which he was. Simmons confesses that as a federal officer he has exerted his influence in Butler's favor by packing caucuses, etc., but he wishes now to relieve his conscience from its load of guilt and hereafter lead a better life. All of which arouses a suspicion that Sam's conscience has been quickened by some inconsiderate act of Ben's.

PERSONALS.

......Cooper's "Bee Hunter" chewed tobacco till he was 103.

......The Vice-President hopes to be able to preside over the Senate next winter.

......Among the signs of the times it is to be noted that Mr. Gladstone is staying at Munich, on a visit to Dr. Döllinger.

......Mr. Bancroft, late United States Minister to Germany, has purchased ex-Senator Harlan's house in Washington. It is expected that he will "entertain" handsomely next Winter.

......Senator Brownlow does not propose to be driven from public life. Having no hope of a re-election to the United States Senate, he announces himself a candidate for the House of Representatives from the Second Tennessee district.

......One of Collector Simmons' bondsmen is already as good as nominated for Congress in the Fourth District, and another of his sureties expects to be elected as a candidate for executive councillor. Rather strong of the custom house, that!

......Rev. Charles E. Grinnell, formerly of the Unitarian Church in Lowell, has abandoned the ministry and entered upon the duty of the law. It is a singular fact that the church from which he has retired has extended an invitation to William Everett, who has abandoned the law for the ministry.

......The late Justice Talfourd, in his charge to the jury in an action wherein it was alleged that the defendant had said to the plaintiff, "Do not speak to me. I am a gentleman. You are a tradesman," took occasion to observe, "Gentleman is a term which is not confined to any station. The man of rank who deports himself with dignity and candor, the tradesman who discharges his duty with integrity, and the humblest artisan who fulfils the obligations incumbent upon him with virtue and honor, are alike entitled to the name of gentleman, in preference to the man, however high his station, who indulges in ribald and offensive remarks."

......The Washington correspondent of the Boston Post says: "The influence of Colonel Mosby, the great champion of the third term, with the administration has just received a fresh illustration in an appointment in the Treasury Department secured by him last Saturday. The Virginia Sentinel, a paper published in the Eighth Virginia district, where General Eppa Hunton, late of the Confederate army and a democrat, is a candidate for re-election, has in a recent number the following: 'Mosby has really represented the district. Within the last three weeks we have seen six ladies and gentlemen appointed to office solely through his influence, besides the many before. This, too, not because Hunton has not tried. He has tried repeatedly, it is said, but invariably without success.' Hunton is just as good a democrat as Mosby, but he is decidedly opposed to the third term."

MARRIAGE SERVICES.—It is a singular fact to reflect upon, that there should not be in existence a fully appropriate marriage service for the uses of either the Church or the world. The Episcopal service, one most hallowed by churchly associations and most full of excellencies, has yet egregious faults. Bad taste, bad grammar and perjury may have their places, but a marriage service would not seem to be the place for them. "I take thee to be my wedded wife (or husband)—to have and to hold," is an awkwardness for which only long inculcated reverence could feel so much rhetorical respect as not to mar a matrimonial ecstasy. "Till death us do part," is a dislocation in which the most devout church woman must feel a pang. The inquiry, "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" is, to say the least of it, an anachronism. "I pronounce you man and wife" flavors somewhat of the tenement-house pathos, as of a couple henceforth to say, "My man is abroad today," or, "My woman is getting dinner." "With all my worldly goods I thee endow," is a fiction so stupendous as to be more amusing than impressive. "Do you promise to obey him and serve him?" The woman shall say, "I will." Herein we have the spectacle of a priest at the altar offering the most solemn and binding of vows to a woman who has not the least intention of keeping it; who will not keep it, if she has; and who ought not to keep it, whether she has or not. The church service was written in a by-gone age, for a bygone type of society. Its real beauties cannot save it intact to the future. The marriage to be, will demand a pledge for which this is neither speech nor language.—[Elizabeth Stuart Phelps in Woman's Journal.

SIMPLICITY IN LIVING.

We presume that most people regard their own way of living as quite as simple as is consistent with their several stations in life. Indeed, few can be found to acknowledge that their wants are all supplied, and fewer still that they make for themselves needless trouble in providing for them. It is so easy to persuade ourselves that things not our own but possessed and apparently enjoyed by others are so essential to our own happiness, that, in this age of wonderfully multiplied contrivances for gratifying every possible desire of everybody, we need have a heavy balance of discrimination and good sense to decide rightly what it is best for us to have or not to have.

The desire so universal for people to be constantly adding to their worldly effects, to be continually increasing their means of home pleasures and social enjoyments, is, without doubt, a legitimate one. But many a person and family have become hopelessly entangled or drowned in a sea of trouble by attempting a more complex style of living than they can easily carry on. It is not a matter of dollars and cents alone. Much misery is, indeed, occasioned by living beyond the means at command; still many who can well enough meet all the expenses incurred are often worried into a chronic state of nervous irritability little short of insanity, by their prodigality in living.

Take the providing for the table; suppose one who can afford it resolves to furnish elaborate dinners and stylish lunches for family and visitors. Who is to do the planning? Who is to bear the responsibility of getting and directing the help? In short who is to have the brains, where the lack of them in the servants would surely be attended by the most vexatious failures? Who labors the hardest, the cooks and scullions in the kitchens, where they hold their nightly carnivals, or the lady in the parlor who keeps up the style?

Generally speaking, the more servants the more worry, particularly if they are employed to "keep up appearances" in society.

Good meals, such as not only give pleasure in the eating, but healthful nourishment in the digestion, need not overtask the brain or the body in their planning or preparation. If the mistress of the house does it all herself, it is plainly suicidal to try to serve elaborate meals or to spend a life in experimenting through an octavo cook book. The man who demands that his wife shall grind out from a big kitchen, even with servants to match princely dinners from day to day, without failures in time or quality, ought to be condemned to run the concern himself for six months, when if he did not come out a better and wiser man, his depravity might be pronounced total.

In the furnishing of the house every additional article brings a care with it, even though it be a necessary thing. In purchasing a new article, whether for the parlor, bed-chamber or kitchen, the decision should first be thoughtfully made that the advantage gained from its possession more then outweighs the trouble caused. In the matter of room we find that there is not a place for everything desirable to have, in the limited space of our houses; and often the room is worth more to us than the utility of the article occupying it. The overdone style of furnishing houses is far too common among well-to-do people, compelling a great amount of discomfort to the household for lack of moving space, and wearying, harassing toil to the housewife in the care of articles which might easily be dispensed with.

Too much adornment of the elaborate kind is indulged in. Costly carvings in furniture, rich tracings and hangings, and elaborate trimmings about the rooms are beautiful, no doubt, but who knows the amount of care requisite to keep them in proper condition but the owner thereof? There are some things about this elaborate style of housekeeping that no "help" can be trusted to do, and it is no sinecure for a lady to marry into a great "establishment," being put in charge of a richly furnished mansion and a platoon of servants who all want to be officers.

Use and comfort first, then adornment as far as it will really contribute to our well-being, but no further, should be our rule. This rule is reversed among savages. They paint or tattoo their faces and bodies, while they scorch or shiver for lack of a simple covering. They fill their huts with useless gowgaws, while they have scarcely implements for the simplest cooking or for the rudest comforts. Civilization improves our condition, increasing our sources of enjoyment, giving new zest to life, but, needlessly, leads many people into that excess of getting, doing and displaying which makes their living a burden to themselves and a discomfort to all under their influence.—[Providence Journal.

CHARM AGAINST HANGING.—A private letter from a gentleman in Texas to his brother in this city tells the story how a colored man was saved from being hanged in San Antonio, in that state: "About a month since a colored man killed a white man in a fracas in this place. The colored man was very much alarmed, knowing that should he be caught he would be hanged to the nearest tree convenient for the purpose, there being no hope for a fair trial in that section. A friend of his hearing of his situation went to see him in his hiding-place, and promised for a consideration (of money of course) to give him a powder, which he should take when he was captured, that would prevent his being hanged or shot. The poor man, believing it to be a charm, readily paid the sum demanded and received the powder, which he was to swallow when there was no other hope. The next day the man was discovered in his hiding-place by a crowd of white men, who were determined to carry out the decision of Judge Lynch, and were about to hang him to a tree which they had already selected. The prisoner, with great reluctance, yet having faith in the power of his powder, was taken to the tree, and when all the arrangements were made he took the powder from his pocket and swallowed its contents. The effect was quickly seen, as he fell dead immediately."—[Cincinnati Times.

JEFF DAVIS'S PHOTOGRAPH ALBUM.—When Jeff Davis was confined in Fortress Monroe one D. E. Moore, an Iowa soldier, who was one of the guard, stole from him a photograph album, containing family photographs and those of his staff, and distinguished confederates with him. Although every effort was made, it could not be discovered at the time who had taken the book. Some time in August D. E. Moore mailed a letter from Waterloo, Iowa, to some person at Erie, Pa., offering the album for sale, fixing the price at $15, this being the price Moore claimed Barnum had on a previous occasion offered him. The Erie man, instead of responding to Moore, sent the letter to Jefferson Davis. Davis wrote to ex-Senator George W. Jones of Iowa at Dubuque, sending him the letter and asking him to get the album, if possible. Moore was found in Iowa county, and the album seized from him under a writ of replevin by an officer. The trial as to the right of the property was postponed until the 15th inst., in order to give Mr. Davis time to furnish the evidence of his right and title to it.—[Charleston (S. C.) SUPREME COURT.

FRIDAY AFTERNOON—TENTH DAY.

The court came in at three o'clock, and sent for the second jury who had been out on the Peabody—Ward libel suit, nearly five hours, and asked them if they had found a verdict, to which the foreman replied that they had not and were not likely to, as they could not agree as to the libelous character of the publication. They stood six and six, with no chance of coming together, and so the papers were taken from them and they were discharged for the term.

The first jury were then called to the panel and the case of George F. Jones vs. William H. H. Lawton, was opened to them on behalf of the plaintiff by his counsel, Mr. Sheffield.

The plaintiff, Mr. Jones, owns a large and valuable estate on Harrison avenue, with a westerly frontage on the harbor, where he has a wharf and float and where he has been accustomed to anchor his boats and vessels, and thence to navigate in and out of the anchorage as he saw fit with great safety and convenience, until the defendant, who is a fisherman, placed a circular pound off the shore, to which were attached ropes leading some two hundred feet to the shore, being attached at the pound to spiles, and running in such a direction and manner as to render the navigation of the plaintiff's boats inconvenient and dangerous, and even amounts to the actual obstruction of his rights and conveniences of free egress and ingress which he has possessed and enjoyed for some twenty years past. The declaration of the plaintiff was fortified by his own testimony, no other witness being called. Drawings of the shore and that part of the harbor and of the estate were also put before the jury. The counsel for the plaintiff intimated that the float which his client had, though convenient for some purposes, was neither convenient or safe, for the mooring of boats. He also suggested that this new method of fishing and pounding fish had greatly interfered with the privileges of the estates bounding on the water, and had resulted in lessening their monied value, and that his client had no desire to hinder the defendant or his fellows from catching fish and getting a livelihood, only that it be done without interfering with his rights.

The counsel for the defendant made no formal opening but made a general denial of any interference or obstruction on the part of his client, with any rights or privileges of the plaintiff's in this case and proceeded at once to call his witnesses who occupied the time until half past five o'clock when the court was adjourned to nine o'clock Saturday morning.

SATURDAY MORNING—ELEVENTH DAY.

The court came in at nine o'clock, and Mr. Peckham proceeded at once to make his argument for the defence, in the case of George F. Jones vs. William H. H. Lawton, in which he contended that the plaintiff had no just cause of complaint against the defendant, and that the pound of the defendant was where the latter had a right to put it and over which the plaintiff had no right of control or over the waters in which it was placed, which do not belong to Mr. Jones's estate or any other man's—and that the guys attached thereto in no way hindered the tying up, anchoring or sailing in and out of the plaintiff's boats. Mr. Peckham closed at 9.44.

Mr. Sheffield then commenced his argument for the plaintiff, in which he contended that the place, (off the Lime Rocks,) where the plaintiff's wharf is, is a dangerous place for boats in certain winds, and that his client can not lay his boat by his float as it is not safe, nor in the other place mentioned by the other side, as it was directly in the way of a constant navigation of boats, oftentimes in the hands of incompetent or intoxicated persons, and it would not be safe—and that it would be unsafe on account of the northeast winds which are so prevalent and from a variety of other causes, and that the only secure, safe and convenient place for his client to moor his boats is in the cove where he has a right and a preference to moor them—and that the ropes leading from the fish pound to the shore, did, the witnesses on the other side being judges, interfere with the navigation of a highway on the water, which should be as free, open and convenient as those on land, and it is dangerous and inconvenient to attempt to sail over these rope guys, and amounted to a positive and real obstruction of a public highway which no man has a right to place or cause to be placed on a public roadway on land or water, and which tends to a hindrance and estoppage of that public travel and convenience which no man can attempt with impunity.

Shore property, Mr. Sheffield remarked, is of more value in the market than other estates, simply on account of certain water rights and shore privileges which attach to them, and any obstruction of them tended to diminish and did diminish that value, although in regard to the question of damages, his client had no desire to mulct the defendant, a poor and laboring man, in an oppressive sum, but merely to have his rights sustained by a verdict so that hereafter they may not be interfered with by the defendant or any body else. Mr. Sheffield concluded at 10.45.

Judge Durfee then charged the jury in the case, urging upon their consideration that the point to be considered was the question of free navigation upon public waters, which was a primary right of all, while others, and the right of fishing included, are secondary and in all cases must give way to the former. The jury, in this case, were to consider whether this right of free navigation was, in the manner and form as alleged by the plaintiff, obstructed by the defendant by his seines and ropes attatched thereto, before the plaintiff would be entitled to a verdict.

The judge closed at eleven o'clock having occupied a quater of an hour. The jury then retired to ponder a verdict.

The jury returned into court at twenty minutes before twelve o'clock, with a verdict for the defendant—that is, they found the defendant not guilty as charged against him, in the plaintiff's declaration.

The jury were then discharged from further attendance at this term, were paid off, and could, like their Southern colored compeers, enjoy once more the immunities and enlargement of freedmen as well as freemen.

The court was then adjourned until Saturday morning the twenty fourth day of October ensuing, at ten o'clock in the forenoon.

On Monday our court reporter will give a general resume of the dispositions of such cases and the entries therein, as have not been already reported.

RESULTS OF A BRIDE'S LITTLE JOKE.—Out in the town of Harrison, Calumet county, about eleven miles from Menasha, a wedding occurred but a few weeks ago, the particulars of which we have just been told. Previous to the happy event, arrangements were made for a wedding tour of several days' duration. In due time the ceremony was performed, and at a proper period the bride was conducted to her chamber. The happy husband soon followed, and having reached the door rapped gently, but listened in vain for the anticipated welcome. He knocked again, more nervously than before, but still no answer was heard. He gently raised the latch; the door was locked. He called to the little mischief within but she answered him not; and he was finally compelled to seek other quarters. At an early hour in the morning, the carriage which had been engaged for the wedding tour, was driven to the door, and our hero stole gently down stairs, entered the carriage, bade the driver apply the lash, and was soon out of sight. He did not return until after the lapse of ten days, during which time he visited every place contemplated previous to his marriage. On his return he found his wife's bed room open! yes, he did.—[Menasha (Wis.) Press.

AN AUTUMN PICTURE.

Loitering in bosky by-ways, in the Autumn's golden prince,
When the drowsy voice of Nature with my spirit sings in time,
Let me paint the glowing pictures that unfold on every hand,
And, with brightest colors garnished, make an Eden of the land.

Here I see a stately maple, clothed in robes would deck a queen,
All the colors of the rainbow blending in its perfect sheen;
Green and purple, gold and scarlet, palest pink and tints of blue,
And through all a rift of sunshine making brighter each bright hue.

There the fragrant pines are swaying to the breeze we scarcely feel,
Shaking down their amber needles as the zephyrs through them steal,
Till a carpet, soft as Wilton, covers all the brown earth o'er,
Where the footfall makes no echo on the velvet-tufted floor.

Here the beeches, dun and sober, lay their bounteous harvest down,
Where yester'en the wild wood flowers made the dying Summer's crown,
And the always-busy squirrel, thoughtful for his Winter's store,
Chirps a song of glad thanksgiving, as he turns the crisp leaves o'er.

Just behind them, where the waters of a crystal river run,
I can see the silver bushes turn their bright leaves to the sun,
As if drinking in the blessings which these Indian Summer days
Drop like tender benedictions from their banks of purple haze.

And I see the graceful willows, green as when, in blooming May,
They had shed their silken tassels in a shower of golden spray
And put on the gayer garments which they don to meet young June,
When she ushers in the Summer, with the warm earth all in tune.

And their thousand forms of beauty are reflected in the tide,
Reaching out to grasp the shadows that within its mirror hide;
While the sunbeams, as if weary, lie upon the river's breast,
Where the ripples gently rock them as they sink to their sweet rest.

Over all is the blue ether of a perfect Autumn sky,
Faintly decked with fleecy cloudlets that are floating slowly by,
And I feel that all these glories are but types to crown our days,
When life's golden Indian Summer wraps us in its dreamy haze.

A SPEEDY MARRIAGE.

Four years ago a bright, intelligent, but not pretty looking young miss, left a homeless and penniless orphan by the death of her father, came to this city and procured employment as a waiter girl at a well known second class hotel, making her home with a family—fifth cousins, or something of that sort,—then residing on Second street. One day, at dinner time, there strode into the dining room, a tall, broad shouldered, bronzed and bearded man, who was evidently from the far West. There was the unmistakable air of plainsman about him; evidently one of the better sort. He seated himself at the table served by the girl in question, and watched her movements very closely.

At supper on the second day after his arrival he remained at the table until it was nearly deserted, and then as he was about rising he addressed the girl in courteous tones, saying that he desired an interview with her, as he had information of importance to communicate. She replied that she would see him in the ladies' parlor at a later hour. She did so, and was not a little surprised at receiving an offer of marriage. He stated that he was a resident of the grazing districts of California, owned a large stock ranch, and was a wealthy man. He had been out there thirteen years, during which time he had mined, prospered for rich diggings, hunted grizzlies, fought Indians, chased Greasers and pursued the usual avocations of an enterprising Californian. He was on his way East to visit his aged parents, who resided in Massachusetts, had stopped in Detroit to see the city, had met her as above described, was pleased with her appearance, and thought it would be for her advantage to quit her present employment and become the wife of a ranchman.

There was an honesty and sincerity in the man's voice as he made his declaration that convinced the girl that he was in earnest. She replied that she would consider his proposition and give him an answer at the breakfast table. During the night she thought the matter over seriously, and when in the morning she took her eccentric lover's order, and he asked in a low tone, "Are you going to California?" she replied, "Yes," and then went for beefsteak and potatoes. That was the extent of the courtship.

As soon as the hungry guests had departed from the dining room, she repaired to the parlor, where the lover was anxiously awaiting her. By his directions she informed the head waiter that she should not work any longer, donned her hat and shawl, and the two started out shopping. Dresses were ordered of nearly all the fashionable modistes in the city, the same to be completed within twenty-four hours. Hats were similarly ordered, and then the retail dealers in all manner of small wearing apparel were visited and large purchases made, the last one being two large Saratoga trunks. The next afternoon the pair were married at the residence of a clergyman, made a call on the bride's humble friends on Second street, and left for the East by the evening train.

Of course the few acquaintances of the bride who were aware of the circumstances of her marriage were all positive that she had acted rashly, and predicted all manner of troubles and trials for her. From the hour of her departure, however, none of them have ever heard a word from her; but from the fact that the happiest-looking wife and mother to be seen riding about the city on Saturday, a curly-headed boy in her arms, and the gentleman who "told her something to her advantage" by her side, was the waiter girl who "married in haste" but did not repent at leisure, it may safely be assured that the predictions did not come true.—[Detroit Post.

CARE OF TEAM HORSES.

The Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals presents the following concise rules for the care of horses, which will commend themselves to every horseman: Potatoes or carrots may be given once or twice a week to good advantage. See that your horse is kept clean, warm and comfortable, with plenty of bedding. A piece of salt rock should always be left in the manger. See that the harness is kept soft and clean, particularly the inside of the collar, which ought always to be smooth, as the perspiration, when dry, causes irritation, and is liable to produce galls on the shoulder. The collar should fit closely, with space enough at the bottom to admit a man's hand. If too large it has the bad effect of drawing the shoulders together. On no consideration should a team or any work-horse be compelled to wear a martingale, as it draws the head down and prevents him from getting into an easy and natural position. The check-rein may be used, but only tight enough to keep the head in a natural position, and it should never be wound around the hames. See that the hames are buckled tight enough at the top to bring the drafting-iron near the center of the collar. If too low, it not only interferes with the action of the shoulder, but gives the collar an uneven bearing. Caution should be taken that the girth is not buckled too tight, particularly on string teams, for when the traces are straightened, it has the tendency to draw the girth against the belly and distress the horse. See that the horse is kept well shod, with a good stiff shoe, always calked at the toe, and heel on hind feet, as it is there where all the propelling power comes from when heavily loaded. Keep the feet good and strong, by not allowing them to be cut away too much by the blacksmith. The best of judgment should be used in loading, taking into consideration the condition of the street and the distance to be traveled. Never overload, for by so doing, you only distress, strain and discourage your horse, and do him more injury than you can possibly gain by carrying the extra load. When your load is hard to pull, stop often, and give your horse a chance to breathe. No good driver will ever resort to the cruel practice of whipping or beating his horse. A light whip may be carried, but there is seldom use for it. Much more can be accomplished by kind treatment and good judgment. Remember, the horse is a very intelligent, proud, sensitive, noble animal, the most useful known to man, and is deserving of the greatest kindness.

NO EXCUSE FOR BEING SICK.

☞ No person can use Boschee's German Syrup without getting immediate relief and cure. We have the first case of Coughs, Colds or consumption, or any disease of the Throat and Lungs, yet to hear from that has not been cured. We have distributed every year for three years over 250,000 sample bottles by druggists in all parts of the United States. No other Manufacturer of Medicine ever gave their Preparations such a test as this. Go to your Druggist James H. Taylor and get a sample bottle for 10 cents and try it—two doses will relieve you.

DR. BICKNELL'S SYRUP

Cures Bowel or Summer Complaints.

Being composed largely of Brandy, Spices and simple astringents, without a particle of Opiate, has proved after a 25 years' trial superior to any other article for Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Cholera-Morbus, Cholera-Infantum, Colic, Cramp, Sick or Sour Stomach, Sea-Sickness, Dyspepsia, &c., and may be implicitly relied upon in the most severe cases, yet so simple and pleasant that it may be given the most delicate infant. It acts upon the system like water on a wilted plant.

A Dangerous Season.

Vegetation, during the summer, has been wonderfully thick and rank, and, as it decays, an unusual amount of sickness may be expected, unless proper means are taken to prevent it.

Fever and ague and bilious remittents already prevail to an alarming extent, and as the fall advances and the malarious night fogs become heavier, the sick list is likely to increase both in the city and in the country. It is, therefore, only an act of common prudence to keep the vital forces in full vigor, so that they may resist the unhealthy influences of the season. Reinforced by the tonic operation of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, the system, however weak and susceptible naturally, will in nine cases out of ten successfully combat every species of atmospheric poison by which epidemics are produced.

During the months of September, October and November the difference in temperature between day and night is very great, and the chilling dews and mists of the season are the prolific causes of indigestion, cholera-morbus, diarrhœa and dysentery. Bearing this in mind, remember also that the Bitters not only invigorate the stomach and brace the nerves, but act specifically upon the bowels and the liver, imparting to these important organs regularity and tone. It is not reasonable to expect immunity from prevalent complaints if no precautions are taken to escape them.

Hostetter's Bitters are at once pleasant to the taste and the most certain of all safeguards against febrile ailments. It preserves health in the healthy, and renews it in the weak and ailing.

PIMPLES AND HUMORS ON THE FACE.—In this condition of the skin, the VEGETINE is the great remedy as it acts directly upon the cause. It cleanses and purifies the blood, thereby causing humors of all kinds to disappear.

The Bar-room Remedy for all ailments is Rum Bitters, surcharged with Fusil Oil, a deadly element, rendered more active by the pungent astringents with which it is combined. If your stomach is weak and liver or bowels disordered, strengthen & regulate them with VINEGAR BITTERS, a purely VEGETABLE ALTERATIVE and APERIENT, free from alcohol & capable of infusing new vitality into your exhausted system. sept15-4w

☞ The fatal diarrhœa, which carries off such numbers of the infant population of cities, every summer and autumn, has its origin in the excessive secretion of acid in the stomach, stimulated by extreme atmospheric heat. Milk of Magnesia is the only remedy capable of neutralizing it and removing its morbid results. Caswell, Hazard & Co., Agents. sept28

☞ To Mothers.—As the season is approaching in which the least exposure of infants to atmospheric changes induces obstinate and debilitating diarrhœas, that the usual medicines are incapable of remedying, it behooves parents to be supplied with the Milk of Magnesia, which never fails to afford instant relief in such attacks. GENERAL NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

The Fever at Pensacola.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.

A dispatch from Capt. Semmes, of Pensacola Navy Yard, says Lieut. Commanders Kellogg and Barclay are seriously ill. Acting Assistant Surgeon Miller and assistant Engineer McElwell are doing well. All the sailors and marines are convalescent.

Commodore W. B. Woolsey, Commandant of the Pensacola Navy York, died of fever this morning. The deceased has been in command of the yard about two years.

FROM NEW YORK.

Commodore Vanderbilt on the Receipts of the Lake Shore and New York Central.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.

Commodore Vanderbilt is credited with saying to a newspaper interviewer today, that the receipts of the Lake Shore road, for nine months, show those of the year will be about seventeen millions, or two millions less than last year, but the loss has been made up by economy. The commodore also said the earnings of the New York Central will not fall below those of last year and are almost certain to exceed them by one hundred thousand dollars.

Amasa Stone, Jr., has withdrawn his resignation as Managing Director of the Lake Shore company.

The Course of Action of the Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad.

President Mitchell, of the Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad, has addressed a letter to Governor Taylor of Wisconsin, in which he reviews the effect of the Potter law upon railroads and other interests of that state. He says no more money can now be obtained from any one anywhere for the construction of railroads in Wisconsin or for extensive repairing or equipment of existing lines, and the income of the company will be seriously impaired. Two courses are open, either to cut down its service in respect of both quantity and kind to an extent made necessary by the diminished income, or make large sacrifices and submit to the loss which will be entailed. The company has decided to incur losses rather than diminish the accommodation heretofore offered.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Meeting of the Evangelical Alliance at Montreal.

MONTREAL, Oct. 1.

The evangelical alliance met this evening in the American Presbyterian church, Principal Dawson of McGill college, chairman. An address of welcome was delivered by Rev. Dr. Jenkins and replies were made by Earl of Cavan, Rev. Donald Fraser and others.

A Fire Panic in the Durfee Mill.

FALL RIVER, Oct. 2.

A mule head took fire in one of the Durfee mills today, and the overseers turned all of the help out. For a short time there was more excitement there than there was at the Granite mill. The fire, however, was extinguished without having communicated to any other mule. The prompt action of the overseers in this case is highly commended.

New Companies Organized in Providence—Mutual Boiler Insurance.

A number of the owners and managers of manufacturing property in Rhode Island have organized two companies—the Enterprise Mutual Fire Insurance Company and the American Mutual Fire and Steam Boiler Insurance Company—in order to extend the advantages of the system of mutual mill insurance, which has been so successful since its first establishment in that state, over thirty years ago, to manufacturers who have not hitherto availed themselves of it. Experience has shown that the constant and careful inspection of the mill by the officers of the mutual insurance companies, who employ no agents, but do the work personally, has led to a very great improvement in the construction of factories, and in the means used for guarding against fire and for extinguishing it when it occurs.

The Enterprise insures against fire only, but the American will have two departments, one for fire and the other for boiler insurance. It is claimed by the originators that steam boiler inspection and insurance can be carried on under the mutual system with much success.

The manufacturing department of the American will have its office in Boston. Following is a list of the directors:—

J. O. Butterworth, Robert B. Chapman, Scott W. Mowry, Elisha Harris, L. T. Downes, A. H. Hall, J. W. Danielson, David S. Harris, A. L. Sayles, B. F. Pabodie, W. H. Kent, F. S. Cabot; president, F. S. Cabot; secretary and treasurer, W. H. Kent.

The directors of the Enterprise are as follows:—

J. Y. Smith, Earl P. Mason, William S. Slater, R. B. Chapman, Scott W. Mowry, Albert Dailey, J. W. Danielson, A. L. Sayles, A. H. Hall, F. S. Cabot; president, Scott W. Mowry; secretary, Robert B. Chapman.

FIRE IN FORT SUMTER.

At half-past 9 o'clock last night Fort Sumter was discovered to be on fire by the vigilant watch on board the revenue cutter Moccasin. A boat's crew, equipped with axes and buckets, was immediately dispatched to the relief of the time-honored fortress leaving the cutter to follow as soon as steam could be raised. Every officer and man was at his post. The engineers were active in their department, and in less than half an hour the Moccasin was gliding down the bay at full speed. The cutter was anchored abreast of the fort, and the crew called away with buckets and axes. Upon gaining an entrance inside the works the fire was found to have originated from a mass of lime and cement. The gale had caused the water to overflow the interior of the port full six feet above the usual mark, overflowing the lime and causing it to catch fire. The lighthouse keeper and his family, together with the building, were at one time in imminent danger, but the timely aid of the cutter's crew arrested the progress of the flames and saved a considerable loss of public property. The fire was subdued, and at halfpast one o'clock this morning the Moccasin returned to her anchorage. She will proceed on a cruise outside at early daylight to render assistance to any unfortunate vessel requiring help.—[Charleston News, September 29.

POWER ON THE FARM.—A horse team, if a good one, as it should be, will cost say $300. It will last, if properly used, twenty years. Divide the $300 by twenty, and we have $15 yearly for wear. The interest of $300 is $21 per year. The keeping of the team: grain, $70; hay, $120; total, $226 yer year. Deducting $26 for the manure, there will be left $200 yearly expense for a horse team.

A mule can be raised, or purchased at a less cost—shall we say one-third less?—making the wear but $5 a year (reckoning the service forty years, double that of the horse,) interest $14, expense of feeding, say grain $50, other fodder $80, in all amounting to $149 a year—a difference annually of $60, or one fourth. And yet the same amount of work, if not more, is performed. This for one team, which in the course of a man's average lifetime on the farm, will amount to a nice sum. Where a large force is employed, the advantages of using mule power will show in large figures.

As to the ox-team, it can hardly be said to be a competitor. Cheapness is its recommendation. The yoke and chain are its harness. Its keep compares favorably with both the horse and mule; and so its original cost. It is handy, always in harness, always ready; and if a good heavy pair, is fitted for heavy work; such as plowing sod (doing the work here of three ordinary horses), hauling heavy loads, etc. But its years of labor are comparatively few. His carcass, however, can be turned off to an advantage. But cattle, whether oxen, bulls or cows, will never supplant the mule or the horse. The little advantage they afford is exception.

THE NEW ERA IN FARMING.—The good old days, of which we hear so much, have passed away. It is questionable whether they are to be regretted; more than certain they are not, so far as farming is concerned. The good old days of one-horse, happy-go-lucky agriculture are indeed over. There was a time when the motto would seem to be, to do as one's father had done, until by repeated experiment and multiplied failures one learned better; to receive on no account any information whatever, and to keep to oneself as much as possible, any discovery made.

The tendency now is quite opposite, and as liberal and far-sighted in policy as the other was narrow-minded and retrogressive. It is the object with farmers to facilitate inter-communication and exchange of useful knowledge, rather than to shut out the news and keep at home the improvements. No sensible farmer fears that by announcing to his neighbors methods of getting over certain difficulties or accomplishing certain ends, he is thus encouraging a set of men, put upon his own plane, to compete with and injure him. He knows that for every single hint given out by him, in return he receives many; and that as he is benefited by others it is only fair to reciprocate as far as he is able. The truth is that there is no class of men so cordially willing to impart information, so mutually helpful, so neighborly, as the farmers.

Quarterly Bills.

During the first few days of October, all bills due the undersigned, will be presented for payment, as has been his custom for the past two years.

It gives him pleasure to note the very general acquiescence in the reasonableness of paying at a stated time and not leaving the accumulated bills of the whole year to be paid in the dull days of January, when money is scarce, and the cold pinches.

Newport Daily News.

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 3, 1874.

FOWLS IN THE HORSE STABLES.—Fowls should never be permitted to have access to the horse stable, nor the feed room nor the hay mow. Their rooms should be entirely separate from the stable, so that they may not always be ready to slip in whenever a door is opened; and that the vermin which infest poultry may not reach horses and cattle.

It is a fact that fowls of all kinds when allowed to go on the hay mow, or in the feeding room, or any where in the barn, damage more fodder than we are wont to suppose.

Some horses are always afraid of fowls; and when one enters the manger or rack the timid horses will immediately surrender their entire right, however hungry they may be, to these lawless marauders. And after they have scratched over the feed with their foul feet, a horse must be exceedingly hungry before he will eat his mess. Many a hungry horse has been deprived of his feeding of grain by a lot of bold, gallinaceous robbers that had learned when and where to fill their empty crops with the feed of a jaded horse. Let grates and bars exclude fowls and pigeons from the doors and windows of all horse stables.

VALUE OF FODDER CORN.—At a meeting of the Massachusetts Cheese Factory Association, Addison H. Holland, a Barre farmer, read an essay on fodder corn. With seventeen cows, he experimented to see what its value was in producing milk; during the month of July he turned his cows into a good pasture, after having fed them with fodder corn, and they showed large falling off in milk. He then through August, soiled them in their stable, feeding fodder corn, and there was a gain in the production of milk. In September they were again turned into the mowing (full field), and they fell off. Mr. Holland cures his corn by spreading it upon the stone walls, and regards it as a valuable feed for milch cows when well cured. He thinks fodder corn the best crop there is to bridge over a dry time with; fed sixty or seventy pounds per cow when they were kept in a short pasture.

WHEN BEE KEEPING DON'T PAY.—If bee-keeping farmers, writes a correspondent, would use as much precaution for preparing pasturage and shelter for their bees as they do for other live stock, I doubt not that a few years of experience, backed with a comparative table of facts and figures, would convince them that bee-keeping would prove as remunerative as any business in which they are engaged. The man who expects a large crop of fruit each year without pruning or cultivating his orchard; he who hopes to harvest a heavy crop of wheat, corn or oats without properly plowing or pulverizing the soil; he who expects to cut a heavy swath of hay every year from the meadow which he devotes half the year to pasturage; and the bee-keeper who expects to get a large yield of honey without giving his bees any attention whatever, are all sure to be dissapointed with their business and will declare it don't pay.

TRAINING A HEIFER TO MILK.—Milking a heifer for the first time requires tact and patience, as they almost invariably kick. Put a band or strap around her body just in front of the udder, and buckle it up tight. She may dance a little, but as soon as she becomes quiet take the pail and go to milking; as she is as helpless as a kitten. Don't attempt to use a rope instead of of a strap and never tie her legs. A few applications of the strap with patience and kind treatment will cure the most obstinate heifer, and old cows if well used never kick.

Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms, with despatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. All necessity of a journey to Washington to procure a Patent, and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse."

CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents.

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office." EDMUND BURKE,

Late Commissioner of Patents.

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakeable proof of great talent and ability on his part, leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges." NOW OPEN, AT 3 & 4 Cottrell Block.

I have my COOK STOVES and RANGES now ready for inspection, and feel confident that I have, not only the BEST assortment, but taken as a whole, the BEST QUALITY, of COOK STOVES and RANGES, ever offered in Newport.

I have a few very FIRST CLASS

MAGEE'S NEW

PORTABLE RANGES, which for BEAUTY and ECONOMY

CAN'T BE BEAT.

ALSO THE

"DOMESTIC RANGE,"

I have sold ONE HUNDRED and FIFTY of these Ranges in Newport, and every one gives perfect satisfaction.

I still keep an assortment of the favorite new Progress.

As this Stove is so widely known, it is unnecessary to say anything of it in this connection.

I would call the attention of those who want a CHEAP Cook Stove, to my new Cook Stove, "THE MENTOR." This Stove is just out; it is a Handsome, Durable and Good Working Stove, and we are just about giving them away.

I would also call attention of Contractors, and all others, to "Magee's New Standard Plate Iron, Hot Air Furnace," for heating stores, dwellings, or any Public Buildings. Such a reputation has this Furnace attained, that there are already several spurious imitations in market. Don't buy them, as it will be money thrown away. Have none but Magee's. A few second-hand cook stoves for sale cheap.

Advice to Bird Owners.

VERMIN.

A GREAT trouble to birds in confinement, are insects, (small lice, of a reddish color), which often cause the death of a bird, though persons do not know what is the matter with them. They are generally produced by uncleanliness, and will, particularly in a wooden cage, increase very fast. The symptoms are, that when the bird during the day is observed to be often picking itself, and the wing and shoulders becoming bald, the crevices and joinings of their cage becoming dirty outside. The insects hide themselves during the day, in these crevices &c., creep out at night, crawl up to the birds and torment them most unmercifully. They will suck the blood out of them and prevent the poor things from resting all night. The bird thus tormented, will appear dull and heavy during the day; cease singing, and if relief be not given them, it very often causes their death.

The above malady may be remedied by procuring a package of the GERMAN INSECT DESTROYING POWDER.
